

GILL NETTERS ONLY ARRIVALS

NINE BOATS LIFTED - 25,000
POUNDS OF FRESH FISH YESTERDAY.

The only receipts of fresh fish arrived with a fleet of nine gill netters, lifting a two days set. All receipts were sent to outside markets for disposal. None of the small fleet of draggers fished yesterday, and shore craft remained in port, although many of them went out late last night.

DOZEN VESSELS AT BOSTON PIER

TOTAL FARES AMOUNT TO 300,000
POUNDS—MARKET HOLDS FAIRLY STRONG.

A fairly large supply of fresh fish was available for dealers at the Boston fish pier this morning. There were 12 craft in the dock when trading began for the half day session. Fares totalled 260,000 pounds of groundfish and 40,000 pounds of mixed fish. Haddock sold for $5.50 to $6; large cod, $5 and markets, $3.50.

A shipment of 1745 boxes of frozen smelts arrived yesterday from Loggieville, N. B. This was the fourth large lot of smelts brought to the Boston market this week. The Smelt fishermen in New Brunswick are doing exceptionally well despite the fact that in one area they have been hampered by ice and high tides with some destruction of gear.

FLOUNDER FLEET SHOWED SIGNS OF WEATHER OUTSIDE

Showing signs of real winter, several of the flounder dragging fleet fishing off-shore, came down from Boston yesterday afternoon, encased in ice which in some places was more than a foot thick. Today the crew of some of them had to chop the stuff away so that small running gear could be handled.
